

NIFTY SPOT : IMMEDIATE SUPPORT AT 25000-24850

Source – TradingView, BP Equities Research

The benchmark index showed strong resilience, finding buying interest at lower levels and recovering a significant portion of the previous day's losses. This price action suggests that the index is firmly stuck in a broad and choppy trading range. The immediate psychological support at 25,000 held successfully, while the overhead resistance in the 25,260 zone remains a major hurdle. A clear directional trend will likely only emerge after a decisive breakout on either side of this range. The options data perfectly encapsulates this scenario, with put writers defending the 24,900-25,000 zone and call writers capping the upside at 25,200.

BANKNIFTY SPOT : IMMEDIATE SUPPORT 55800-55100

Source – TradingView, BP Equities Research

The banking index also managed to find support and close with a positive bias, although its recovery was more subdued. The index continues to exhibit range-bound behaviour after the recent failed breakout attempt. The critical support level to watch remains 55,800, while the upside is capped by strong resistance near 56,500. The current market structure points towards continued consolidation, and traders may find opportunities on both sides until this range is broken. The options data shows a clear tug-of-war, with significant put open interest at 55,500 and strong call writing at the 56,000 strike, keeping the index in a tight grip.
