

NIFTY SPOT : IMMEDIATE SUPPORT AT 25100-25000

Source – TradingView, BP Equities Research

The benchmark index faced selling pressure at higher levels and retreated to close in the red. This price action suggests a potential retest of the breakout zone, a common technical occurrence. The critical support to watch is now the 25,100-25,200 band. As long as the index sustains above this area, the bullish view remains intact, and this dip can be considered a buying opportunity. However, a decisive slip below this support would negate the recent breakout and signal a return to a consolidation phase. Options data will be crucial, with bulls needing to defend the 25,200 put strike to maintain their advantage.

BANKNIFTY SPOT : IMMEDIATE SUPPORT 56200-55700

Source – TradingView, BP Equities Research

The banking index entered a consolidation phase, trading within a narrow range and closing almost flat. This indicates a pause in the upward momentum as the market digests the recent gains. The breakout level of 56,200 now acts as an immediate and crucial support. For the uptrend to continue, holding above this mark is essential, with the next target remaining the psychological level of 57,000. The options data likely shows that the 56,500 strike is a key battleground, with both put and call writers actively building positions around this level.
