

NIFTY SPOT : IMMEDIATE SUPPORT AT 25050-24850

Source – TradingView, BP Equities Research

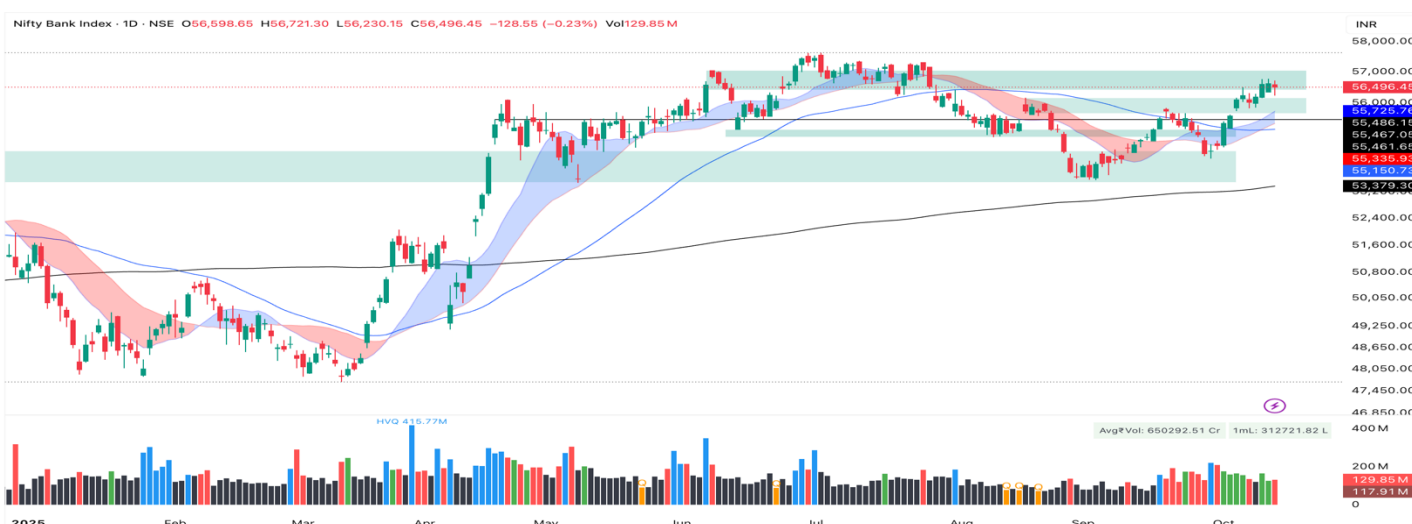

The benchmark index continues to show signs of weakness at higher levels, as the recent breakout above 25,200 appears to be failing. The index has now slipped back below this critical level, which will once again act as a strong resistance. This "failed breakout" is a bearish signal in the short term, suggesting the market is not yet ready for a sustained upward move. The immediate support to watch is now 25,000, followed by the lower end of the trading range at 24,850. Options data will likely show a resurgence of call writing at the 25,200 and 25,300 strikes, indicating that traders are betting on further consolidation or a move lower.

BANKNIFTY SPOT : IMMEDIATE SUPPORT 56200-55500

Source – TradingView, BP Equities Research

The banking index witnessed a day of profit booking, pulling back from its recent highs and closing in the red. The index is currently retesting its prior resistance zone of 56,200, which is now expected to act as support. The price action over the next few sessions will be crucial; a successful hold above this level would keep the bullish sentiment intact, treating this dip as a healthy pullback. However, a decisive fall below 56,200 could signal a loss of momentum and drag the index back towards 55,500. From an options perspective, the 56,000 strike is a pivotal level, with significant put and call open interest likely creating a tight battle between bulls and bears.
